CHANGE OF MANAGEMENT.

v. T. Malott, Esq., to Become President of the Indiana National Bank.

An important change in one of our principal banks has been arranged this week, and will be consummated at the annual election next Tuesday. V. T. Malott, Esq., who recently disposed of his interest in the Merchants' national bank and retired from the presidency, has purchased a large amount of the stock of the Indiana national bank. This has been bought mainly from a number of the larger shareholders, most of whom, however, retain an interest, and some of them, it is understood, will continue to act as directors. Mr. William Coughiln, who has been president for three years, and who has conducted affairs during a very critical period in a highly creditable manner, will retire at the annual election and will be succeeded by Mr. Malett, who will take the active management of the institution. The Indiana national, in one sense, is the oldest corporate bank in the city, having been established as the Indianapolis Branch of the the Bank of the State in 1857, and though the organization of the branch was maintained until a few years ago, its capital and business were merged into the Indiana national in 1864. It has had a very successful career and yielded handsome returns, though of late years in common with all classes of business, it has suffered considerably from hard times. But with the general improvement in times, and the advantages of Mr. Malott's experience and business commercions, a long lease of prosperity may be fairly expected. V. T. Malott, Esq., to Become President with the general improvement in times, and the advantages of Mr. Malott's experience and business connections, a long lease of prosperity may be fairly expected.

There is a very interesting feature in connection with this change which agreeably combines sentiment with business. Mr. Malott began his business life in this bank, and remained there, rising from messenger to teller, until he left to engage in railroad service. Just twenty years ago he left the bank and went to the offices of the Peru railroad, on the corner of Delaware and Washington streets. This week the offices of the Peru railroad, on the corner of Delaware and Washington streets. This week tho offices of the railroad—now a part of the Wabash system—were removed from that location, and next week Mr. Malott, though not severing his railroad connection, will go back to his old quarters, as president of the institution in which he began at the foot of the ladder. Very probably he would have reached this position in the natural course of things had he remained with the bank, but he could'hardly have done so under such favorable circumstances, for the twenty years have not only secured him a large amount of wealth but a knowledge of various businesses and a reputation as a very safe, clear-headed and successful man, which must prove of great benefit to any concern of which he is the head.

The remains of John Farrell were returned to his late residence, No. 156 John street, night before last, and the final laterment will take place to-morrow. The deceased held a situation in Ft. Wayne, but maintained his family in this city. Night before last he returned to Ft. Wayne. While standing upon the platform after disembarking, he imagined himself at Peru instead of Ft. Wayne, and attempted to regain the coach after the tain had stated. In doing so he fell under the wheel and was killed. He was aged 56, and leaves a large family who can ill afford his less. his loss thin tabelity and tabely

GUITEAU.

The Argument for the Defease Began this Horning.

Guiteau will Not be Allowed to Speak in His D fense.

Washington, January 14.—Guiteau opened the day's proceedings with the following: "I received thirty checks, resterday, representing about $15,000. Some of them, I suppose, are worthless, and many are, no doubt, good. I don't want any one to send me worthless checks. I do my own banking business, and my checks should be made out to my order. Any one who desires to send me money can do so, but I don't want any worthless checks."

Scoville addressed the court, stating he desired to know whether the prisoner would be allowed to speak in his own defense. If the court proposed to accord him that privilege, both he (Scoville) and Reed would prefer that he should speak first.

Guiteau—"I want to be heard on that question, your honor. I want to close the argument for the Gefense. I wouldn't trust my case in the hands of the best lawyer in America."

Judge Cox.—"I should be both, in a criminal case, to deny any man a proper opportunity to be heard, even if he is represented by counsel, but in this case it is safe to assume that the prisoner will abuse the privilege, as he has done all through the trial, and that what he would say would be highly improper to go before the jury, is hall, therefore, deny him the privilege. As I said yesterday, however, if his counsel desire to read from his manuscript anything which they deem proper to be laid before the jury, they can do so."

Guiteau protested that he appeared as his own counsel and claimed the right as an American cutsen to be heard in his own defense. Finding that Judge Cox could not be moved he shouled, "Let the record show that I appear here as my own counsel, and that I take exception to your ruling, Judge Cox. I shall appeal to the American people, and they will overrule you, and you will go down to future ages with a black stain upon your name."

Judge Cox made no reply to this tirade, but simply nodded to Reed to begin his argument. Reed then rose to address the jury on behalf of the prisoner. He commenced by paying a compliment to jury for the seriousness, solemn WASHINGTON, January 14.—Guiteau opened e day's proceedings with the following: "I

A LONG FIGHT ENDED. Franklin B. Gowan Riested President of the Reading Road.

(Philadelphia special to Cincinnati Enquirer.)

The virtual election of Franklin B. Gowen as president of the Reading rallroad company, where an ansural meeting lasting for the days, is the sensation of the town. The McCalmonts, the great London bankers, who control rearist two hundred thousand shares of the six hundred and ninety-one thousand that make up the capital stock of the company, made Mr. Gowen president of the Reading railroad in 1899, and from that time he found no opposition until after the found no opposition until after the railroad's failure in May, 1880. He then found himself descried by his powerful English supporters, and after a desperate battle in March, 1831, Major Frant 8. Bond, then vice president of the Texas and Pacific railroad, and a candidate actually of the Pennsylvania railroad, was made the president Pecific reliroad, and a candidate actually of the Pennsylvania railroad, was made the president of the Reading or mpany, which was then, as now, in the hands of receivers. Gowen, however, set to work again with the indomitable pluck that is his main characteristic, and announced his determination to resume the presidential office. He was laughed at. The city's financiers souffed at him. The Feading road, all said, was controlled by Englishmen, as the McCaimont stock invariably constituted a majority of the stock voted. But Gowen had great meetings in the Academy of Music, the mere announcement that he would talk attracting thousands of people.

He crossed the ocean several times, and in the meetings had in London his matchless oratory and powerful arguments won him many votes. meetings had in London his matchless oratory and powerful arguments won him many rotes that the McCalmonts had heretofore controlled. In the midst of these endeavors the brokers made the discovery last summer that Wm. H. Vanderbilt was buying Reading shaper largely. His interest in the fight soon be came apparent. The Reading road has a combination with the new Jersey Central, and controls the Bound Brook line to New York, and by this means Mr. Vanderbilt could obtain a Philadelphia outlet for the New York Central and strike his rival, the Pennsylvania railroad, on its own territory. If he had the balance of power on election day Mr. Vanderbilt, of course could have distated terms to the candidates, He kept buying, until forty thousand shares were registered in his name. Gowen claimed that these wou d be voted for him, and Bond made a similar claim. Vanderbilt kept his own counsel. Gowen still worked like a beaver, and that these wou d be voted for htm, and Bond made a similar claim. Vanderbilt kept his own counsel. Gowen still worked like a beaver, and his opponent, confident of the invinelble character of the McCalment holdings, rested in easy recurity. The annual meeting began on last Monday. After a long wrangle the ballotting began. Five thousand scattering bond votes were cast, and about twenty thousand for Gowen. All the second day nothing but Gowen proxies flowed in, and as fast as they could be counted. The task was so great that all the third day also had to be given up to the counting of Gowen votes. This ended early on the fourth day, and then the Bond people hurled in their heavy blocks of English snock until in a very short time they had polled 221, 457 votes. The total Gowen vote for three days was less than 190,000. The Bond people were triumphant. The 40,000 Vanderbilt shares, which had been held in obeyance, they said could not affect them even if cast against them, asso many of the Gowen votes were improperly cast. The meeting opened again to-day in a ieverish mood. Augustus Schell, of New York, stepped forward to vote the Vanderbilt sharers. No one knew how he would cast them until he threw down his first proxy and attached a Gowen ticket to it. Loud applause followed, which increased when continued voting showed the surprising fact that sity Vanderbilt held eighty-two thousand shares, forty-two thousand of them being in the name of relatives and friendly brokers. This gave Gowen 50,278 majority. The election will have to be decided in court, as the road is in the hands of a receiver, but Gowen's election is assured.

By his course in this unpleasant matter, Mr. Orth has shown that he possesses traits which, if he were speaker of the house, would be very likely to lead him to do the things for the doing of which he now reproves Mr. Keifer. That the speaker has deliberately arranged the committees with purposes in view other than those which concern the public welfare is apparent. There have been many and well-grounded complaints of the unfair arrangement of the house committees, before now. Usually, these complaints have come from the party in a minority, in the house. But never, probably, has there been injustice as glaring committed by the speaker, nor so general a dissistisfaction among members, as in this particular case.—[New York Times.

The News and Times do not agree as to Oscar Wilde. The nineteenth century editors of The News insist that Mr. Wilde is "an ineffable donkey," while the Rennaissance editors of the Times assert that "he has written some of the most vigorous and masculine poetry that has appeared in England for a dozen years."—[Saturday Herald.

The annual reception of the Indianapolis Woman's Club was held last night at the New Denison hotel. About seventy-five ladies attended, who were received by a committee composed of Madames Adkinson, Sewell, Sherman and Pierce and Misses Howland and Hendricks. Supper was served in the dining room of the hotel, after which the evening was spent in a delightfully informal, social manner.

The Brazil Enterprise says the first coal shaft was sunk near Brazil in 1857. Coal mining was done five years earlier, though it was mainly done by "stripping" and taking out the coal from the surface, as stone is taken from a quarry. Ex-Mayor Caven and his partner Griffith, were about the first—the very first in the city here—to go into the business, and they did it and sent the coal here in 1851-2. It is well to remember the beginning of big enterprises occasionally.

The merchant policemen last evening passed a resolution offering a reward of fity dollars for the arrest and conviction of the chicken thief who attempted to murder Officer Remley. If the town could be "stood on end," figuratively speaking, for a $10 diamond filched from a woman of speckled reputation, in the same proportion the city will now be shaken as if through a sieve, and a long suffering public will be treated to a batch of detective werk, unexampled in dextrous skill and sagacious followings. Whoever shot Remley, let him Fifty Dollars Reward. followings. Whoever shot Remley, let him now beware!

Another Wreck.

Another bad wreck occurred at the Panhandle and Belt road crossing last night just before the C., H. & I. passenger train was due. A Panhandle freight train running twenty-five miles an hour ran into a freight train on the Belt. The engine and four cars drove right through the Belt train without injury, but the next three cars were badly damaged, their trucks being thrown athwart the track and the car doors and sides torn off. The Belt cars were ripped wide open. The danger was seen before the collision, but the brakemen were said to be asleep in the caboose and did not respond to the whistle. No one was injured.

Infidel Papers and Patrons.

W. H. Lamsster, editor of the Noblesville Iconoclast, which he says is an "infidel paper," is in the city arranging to publish it here in the future. The letter of Col. Ingersoll in the current number is in great demand, and he has had application for it from all parts of the country. Lamsster says that he finds most of the infidels are republicans, the democrats do not seem to think enough to form epinions of that nature, and are often so intolerant that they will not allow or encourage the faintest attempt at liberalism. Lamsster is thoroughly in earnest in what he thinks is the rescue of humanity from dogmatism, but does not go to the lengths reached by many of the same school. He says for instance that he does not believe there is any such thing as an unquestioning down-right atheist, though he fails to find evidence of the existence of a God of love in the works of nature. He thinks it probable that the wicked Dr. Monroe, of Seymour, will also move his paper to this city.

Society Inaugurals.

The second term of Butler university has opened auspiciously, and the various literary societies held inaugural exercises yesterday. In the afternoon, the Athenian, ladies' society, gave an excellent entertainment, whereat Miss Tade Hartsuff was inducted into the presidential office. Her inaugural address was on "Customs and manners," and was highly creditable. Other exercises were given by Misses Smith, Frankeberger, Brooks, Clinton, Ingalls, Morgan and Laughlin. In the evening the Pythonian hall was crowded to its utmost capacity. New furniture and elegant curtains have just been purchased, and the occasion was one of great congratulation. Mr. O. P. Hubbard, the president elect, delivered an effective address on "Magnanimity of American institutions," and interesting performances were given by Messrs. Kutna, Morrison and Koutz. The Philokurean society also insugarated officers. Mr. Lewis Pier, the retining president, and Mr. D. J. Bunners, the president elect, made appropriate appeaches. The latter's subject was "Woman's ruffrage."

CEIMINAL LAW - FLEADING - FRACTICE.

9657. James Mountjoy vs. the State of Indiana. Hamilton C. C. Affirmed. Niblack, J.

[1.] Where in an affidavit or indictment property alleged to have been stolen appears to have been personal, the faffure to sver that the property was personal, affords no ground of objection to the affidavit van made and signed J. E. clerk, as being the person before whom it was made. This is a sufficient showing that the person as signing was sutherized to administer caths. The courts take judicial notice of the names and signatures of their, officers, and it will be presumed that J. E. was the clerk of the court below, and that he signed the jurat as suchclert. (75 Ind. 39; 72 Ind. 123). The seal of a court need not be attached to the jurat of an affidavit sworn to before its clerk, and to be used only in such court.

be attached to the jurst of an affidavit sworn to before its clerk, and to be used only in such court.

(3.) The general rule in a criminal, as well as in a civil cause, is that where a party is present in court when a judgment is rendered against him he cannot complain of the judgment in this court when a judgment is rendered against him he cannot complain of the judgment in this court when a judgment is rendered against him he cannot complain of the judgment in this court, unless he as in some way reserved an exception to it.

CONTABLES—LETTING PRISORER ESCAPES '5784. State of Indians va George Sparks. Jackson C. C. Reversed. Howk, J.

The appellee, who was a constable, was indicted for permitting a prisoner, that he had in custody, to excape. The indictment after making the proper averments as to appellees being a constable and an officer whose duty it was to have the custody of prisoners charged with or convicted of any offence against any law of the state, "and, as such constable, than and there having one Virgil Wilson a prisoner in his the aid constable, custody for the offence of riot, before conviction therefor, with which said offence the said Wilson, was then and there charged, and which said charge of riot against said Wilson being then pending, etc., did then and there feloniously, unlawfully, corruptly and negligently suffer and permit the said Wilson to escape, go at large," etc. This indictment was erroneously quashed. It sufficiently the arged an offence under section 43 of the misdemeanor act (2 R. S. 474.) The use of the adverb, feloniously, is progerly used in describing a misdemeanor, but its improper use was at most surplusseze.

[2.] The courts of this state must know, and take not'ce thereof without any averment in an indictment, that under the law a riot is a public offense. (Archb, Cr. Ple, and Ev., 10 London ed., 550, 151: 2 Bishop's C. P., see, 941; Moote's C. L., see, 717.)

891. James H. Turple vs. John C. Knowles et al. White C. C. Affirmed. Howk, J.

This was a suit by the appellees, as payees, against the appellants was maker of a promisory note. The is use was joined, and a finding was made for appellees for the amount of the note. The reupon the appellant moved the court on an affidavit filed, to set aside the submission of the cause. The only error arises on the overruling of the motion to set aside the submission. The motion to set aside a submission of a cause, is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court. In such a case, an absolute abuse of the discretion of the court must be clearly shown, by the affidavits in support of the motion, before this court would be authorized to revise or reverse the decision of the court below. No such showing was made in this case (24 Ind., 277; 34 Ind., 403; 54 Ind., 207)

TELEGRAPH MESSACES—VOID CONTRACT.

8663. Eugene R. Rogers vs. The Western Union Telegraph Company. Knox C. C. Affirmed Elliott, C. J.

[1] When one has placed a telegraph message in the hands of a telegraph company to be transmitted on Sunday and the contract 'or its transmission is made on that day, he cannot recover the statutory penalty from the company for the failure to transmit and de-transmission is made on that day, he cannot recover the statutory penalty from the company for the failure to transmit and deliver a telegraphic message, A penalty can not be recovered for the failure to perform a tillegal contract, (69 Ind., 199.)

[2] Courts can not declare as matter of law that the business of telegraphy is a work of necessity, whether the smding of a particular message is a work of necessity must be determined as a question of fact from the evidence in the matter.

REPLEVIN—CANVERSION—DEMARD.

Orange C. C. Affirmed. Howk, J.

[1] Where, on the trial of a case in replevin, evidence was introduced which strongly tended to prove, and from which the jury could have found that a person had wrongfully converted the property in controversy to their own use, it was not necessary to make a demand before bringing suit, (59 Ind., 489; 66 Ind., 576; 70 Ind., 26, 135.)

bringing suit, (56 Ind., 489; 66 Ind., 576; 70 Ind., 26. 135.)

[2.] There was evidence introduced tending to prove that the appellee, in this case, had pawned or pledged the property in dispute to appellant, to secure a loan. The appellant insist, on this evidence, that before the appellee could recover she must pay or tender the loan. But as there was evidence tending to show, and the jury might have found, that the appellant had converted the property pledged to her own use without having demanded the loan, and without having given notice to the pledger of her intention to dispose of the property if the lan were not paid. In such case the pledgor may sue at once for the recovery of the property or its value, without having first paid or tendered the amount of the debt or loan, for which the property had been pawned or pledged. (5 Blekf., 320: 24 Ind., 62: 2 Comstock, 443.)

Valuable Trunk Belonging to John Streight Stolen at the Depot.

Captain McGregor and Officer Foster did a substantial bit of work to-day in the arrest of Louis Levy and Abram Baum, the latter living on Eddy street near Merrill. On Sunday evening a trunk belonging to John Sweight and wife was stolen from the union depot. The parties were en route for New Orleans, when their bagges was missed, and after investigating. Mr. Streight came to the conclusion that it had been wrongfully checked. Some days were spent in helegraphic inquiries, and it was not until last evening. that the robbery became known. Last night Captain McGregor obtained a clue, which this morning led to the arrest of Levy while he was preparing to attend a funcral. The burial went on without him. In his possession were found Streight's boots and clothing. Under the authority of a search warrant. Baum's residence was searched, and a quantity of wearing apparel belonging to Mrs. Streight was recovered, together with the trunk, from which the name had been cut. Baum was arrested for receiving stolen goods, and an examination of the sciendants was had before the mayor sufficient to warrant their detention under heavy bonds. In addition to the clothing, Mrs. Streight's lewelry, valued at $500, was also in the trunk, but of this no trace has yet been found. Streight Stolen at the Depot.

Messrs. Webster and Deary, delegates to the national conventions, reported the national association to be in a prosperous condition. Mr. Webster being called on, personally came forward and spoke with reference to the national association. He said the great political struggle the next decade would be on commercial issues and the "drumners" should be prepared to bear their part. He called attention to a recent manifestation of the power of 16,000 drummers in the state of New York at the polis, and with such an example before them the 180,000 drummers of the United States ought to wield a considerable power in the protection of their own interests.

The secretary reported thirty-five members added to the role of the association since last night.

Messrs. Hendrickson and McPherson were appointed tellers, and Messrs. Jeffreys, Ryder and Wilkens, clerks.

The meeting at this point became entangled in a number of crazy motions relative to the manner of voting and as the presiding officers, Mr. Cook having retired, were unable to bring order out of the confusion, the association resolved itself into a committee of the whole, Mr. Webster being chosen chairman, as a capable presiding officer. He at once restored order. The original appointment of tellers and clerks was rescinded and the chair appointed Messrs Parker, Coleman, Ralph, Barrow, Kruell, and Marmon teliers, and Messrs. Wright and Cady, clerks. The result of the election was the choice of T. J. Cook for president by the vote of Dean, 38, and Cook, 110.

Safe of the Arcade Mills Blown Open This Morning—A Large Haul.

This morning about five o'clock, as nearly as nearly as can be ascertained, the safe in the Arcade mills, at the intersection of Missouri and Maryland streets, was blown open. The cracksmen entered the office from the street through the windows, which were easily raised. Prior to entering the mill, they broke into the carriage-making shop of J. C. Burgan, on Kentucky avenue, and obtained a brace, chisel, screw driver, a wood-axe and a wooden lever, all of which they used in their work at the mills. On getting to the safe they drilled a hole about the diameter of a lead pencil in the side of the sate near the bottom, and two boles of the same site about eight inches apart in the doorsthee they drilled a hole about the mills, who lives near by, but who supposed it was the noise from some steam excape. It was also heard by the merchant policeman on the beat, who subsequently ascertained its source and gave the alarm to the police headquarters. Meantime the burgiars had made away with their plunder. They obtained $25 in cash, a large number of checks, the most of which had been cashed, were taken but were found this morning scattered about the yard. A small inside sale was carried off and has not yet been found. It contained insurance policies to the amount of $20,000, and a note for $2,700 in favorrof L. H. Blanton of the firm. The force of the explosion was so great as to split a large stancision near which the safe stood, and broke the doors of the safe which was of an old fashloned Hall pattern, with combination lock, in pieces. It can now only be used for scrap Iron, and was valued at about $202. The burglars were evidently skilled in their work, as they left their tools behind and encumbered themselves with no evidences of their crime except the money and the small safe which was doubtless carefully disposed of Lafter they discovered that it contained nothing which they could use or realize upon. The only clew which the police have thus far is th

"Common Barrators."

Conrad Sour and "Doc" Pierson were before the city attorney to day seeking to prosecute Andy Vice and George Tout as "common barrators," but they were referred to a peace justice. Tout and Vice trapped the complainants on the Sunday business, but before prosecution was had Sour and Pierson pleaded guilty before 'Squire Thompson and were fined. A second arrest followed for the same offence on a warwant issued by Woodard, on which a hearing will be had on Monday next. After leaving the city court the complainants went before 'Squire Schmidt, where a possible prosecution of Tout and Vice was under advisement at last report.
